

EU-US Research and Innovation Collaboration: Opportunities through Horizon 2020

Monday, April 10, 2017
9:00 AM - 12:00 PM MDT

Maglione Hall, 5th Floor, the Sie Complex,
Josef Korbel School of International Studies, University of Denver
2201 S Gaylord St., Denver, CO

Join us to learn and discuss the many opportunities for U.S. scholars and researchers to participate in Horizon 2020, the EU's €80 billion research program. Participants will network among peers, European Commission representatives, and Horizon 2020 grantees in the U.S. A special topic will include the new Implementing Arrangement between the U.S. and EU.

Who are the Participants:

- University community members (researchers, faculty, research administrators, and students) who are interested in establishing or increasing European research and innovation collaborations or looking for opportunities to work in Europe.
- Private companies/SMEs who are interested in participating in Horizon 2020 and in tech transfer between the U.S. and the EU.

Discussion Topics:

- How to increase research collaboration with Europe in my university?
And how can a U.S. University participate in Horizon 2020?
- What type of projects, organizations, and countries are usually supported by Horizon 2020? What partnerships are required or encouraged?
- How can a private enterprise participate in Horizon 2020?

Speakers:

- Ms. Maria Cristina Russo, Director for International Cooperation, European Commission
- Prof. Martin Rhodes, Academic Co-Director, Colorado European Union Center of Excellence (CEUCE)
- Dr. Mary Kavanagh, Minister-Counsellor, Research and Innovation, the EU Delegation to the United States
